The 2021 California Processing Tomato Harvest Update

For week five ending July 31st, PTAB is estimating 843,010 tons for a total of 2,315,577 tons. What is more concerning is the following week ending August 7th is estimated to be 888,937 which is only a 45,000 ton increase from the previous week. The industry continues to report less than anticipated field yields resulting in what can consider a slow start. Further, these lower yields support current projections of the 2021 pack crop coming up short when compared the USDA intention.

Projected Deliveries – August 7, 2021

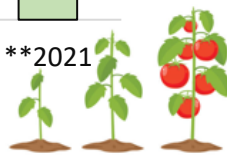

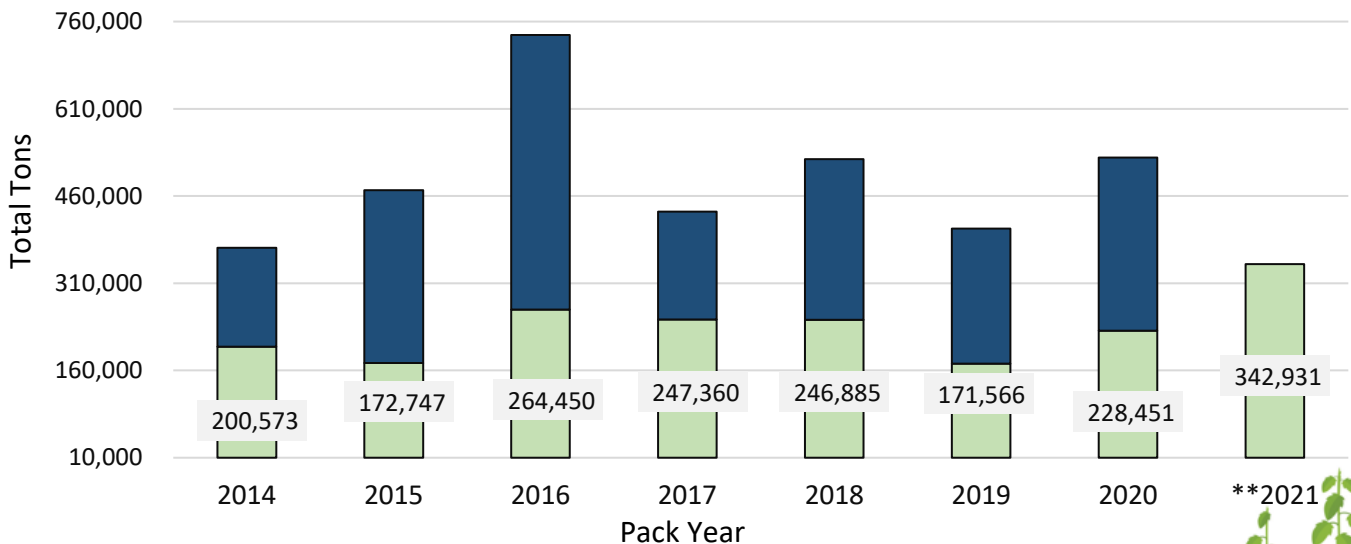

*2021 YTD is based on PTAB's projected deliveries for week ending August 2nd

2021 California Organic Tonnage

For week ending July 24, California will have processed 342,931 tons of organic tomatoes. The previous week ending July 17, saw the most organic tomatoes ever run in a single week at 131,611 tons (previous record was 116,559). The USDA does not put out a January estimate for the organic crop so it's difficult to say how large the crop is, but it is ahead of any previous crop at this time of season.
